Inviting Transformation: Presentational Speaking for a Changing World By Sonja K. Foss, Karen A. Foss

The third edition of Inviting Transformation continues to offer a refreshing, innovative approach to public speaking, or what the authors call presentational speaking to acknowledge that not all important speaking occurs in formal public settings. The book introduces readers to invitational rhetoric, a mode of communicating that offers an effective response to the diversity that characterizes the world.

Respect for the diversity of the world also is emphasized in the book in that the traditional speaking model has been expanded to include speaking options that characterize diverse cultural groups. For all of the processes of presenting--such as selecting a speaking goal, organizing ideas, elaborating on ideas, and delivering the presentation--the book includes and validates more inclusive speaking practices.

The exceptionally accessible writing style and reasonable price make this concise text attractive for students and instructors alike.

Editorial Review

Review

"The world doesn't need another public speaking textbook, but it needs this one. In my experience, the worst public speaking text is not so different from the best. Foss & Foss, though, offer a genuinely unique approach. This book stands out from all the others on the shelf. Every professor should own a copy and many should adopt it." George LaMaster, Marian University

"Excellent text. Covered a wide variety of very current and usable speaking situations. Reads well interesting and I feel I can capture the interests of the student." Kay Robinson, Barton County Community College

"I appreciate the way the book helps students think through the multiple variables influencing speech effectiveness and develop strategies for meeting their goals." Amber Kinser, East Tennessee State University
