Editorial Review

Review

T/K

From the Back Cover

"Lucid, sharp, funny, Bogad's Tactical Performance is the book we've been waiting for on creative activism."
--Diana Taylor, Director, Hemispheric Institute of Performance and Politics, New York University, and author of Performance

"Tactical Performance rehearses theatre and social justice strategies at their best: historically connected, culturally informed, alive and nimble in their responses to the political moment. With the savvy of a participant/observer and the acuity of an historian and critic, Bogad provides a lively overview of important activist performances, asking us to reconsider their effects and their promise. A crystal-clear argument in a must-read book for all who care about performance and social change."

--Jill Dolan, Dean of the College, Princeton University, and author of Utopia in Performance: Finding Hope at the Theatre

"Beautifully written; a playful, potent mixture of history, how-to, and theory, informed by the author's many years of personal front-line experience."

--The Yes Men (Andy Bichlbaum and Mike Bonanno)

"The love child of Lenny Bruce and Saul Alinsky, Bogad has worked, on the street and behind the scenes, at the nexus of some of the most compelling art-interventions of the past 15 years. He brings his truly original and bizarre performance-art sensibility both to his activism and to this ground-breaking book. Read it!"

--Guillermo Gómez-Peña, writer, performance artist, and pedagogue

"Appalling bad taste and worse judgment make Bogad's interventions memorable and frequently effective. Don't try this alone at home. These actions should be undertaken with friends, and preferably with very good friends."

--Peter Sellars, theatre and opera director
