Are women fighting over the same issues and for the same rights all around the world? What are the gains that have been made for women in different cultures over the past 200 years? Students will find answers to these and similar questions in this unique resource of fifteen case studies exploring the problems surrounding the fight for women's rights in different countries, ranging from Argentina to Zimbabwe. The history, the public perceptions, contemporary problems, the future of women's rights, and the roles of activists concerning these rights are examined. The detailed explorations provide readers with the opportunity to discover the different cultural attitudes toward women.

In order to facilitate comparisons, each chapter follows a similar outcome. The countries were chosen to represent every region of the world and to provide as broad a picture as possible of the issues presented by women's struggles for equality. Each case study asks how national, cultural, class, racial, and religious differences have influenced women's rights. These different views of ways in which women have sought their rights around the world will help students to understand the fight for women's rights in a broad sense as a social issue that affects all of humanity.

Review

"This volume delivers a wealth of detail about the status of women by using case studies from five continents....An excellent addition for the collection that supports women's studies or multicultural themes. Recommended."-The Book Report

"[s]erves as a one-stop source....Recommended for high schools."-Blanche Woolls & David Loertscher (GaleGroup.com)

"Ýs`erves as a one-stop source....Recommended for high schools."-Blanche Woolls & David Loertscher (GaleGroup.com)

"The revealing chronologies presented in Women's Rights trace reform discourses to unlikely periods, champions, and domains....The issues and strategies prioritized by the groups of women discussed in the book are telling about their common grounds and points of departures. The book is further instructive about skillful initiatives engineered by women to collaborate across their differences and to bridge their pertinent interests."-SIGNS
