Proof by Seduction (Carhart series) By Courtney Milan

It's not easy for a woman with neither money nor family to make her own way in the world, but as one of London's premier fortune-tellers, Jenny Keeble has managed precisely that. All she has to do is smile sweetly, listen carefully, and tell her clients precisely what they want to hear. It works...until Gareth Carhart, the scientifically-minded Marquess of Blakely, decides to prove that she's a fraud.

At first, all Gareth wants is to free his gullible cousin from Jenny's clutches. But he discovers that she's clever, spirited, beautiful, and not at all the conniving liar that he initially imagined. Still, there's nothing logical about his attraction to her, and so he refuses to give in to it. He's vowed to ruin her, so he will--even if he has to break his own heart in the process.

This is an enhanced ebook. In addition to the text of the book itself, it contains pictures, audio, and author commentary. Editorial Review

From Publishers Weekly

Starred Review. Historical romance fans will celebrate Milan's powerhouse debut, which comes with a full complement of humor, characterization, plot and sheer gutsiness. The setting is 1836 London, where fortune teller Madame Esmerelda, née Jenny Keeble, plies her dubious trade at the fringes of respectability. She draws the ire of Gareth Carhart, marquess of Blakely, when his young cousin and heir falls under Madame Esmerelda's spell. Socially inept scientist Gareth wants to prove that Jenny is a fraud, leading to some delightful nonsense as Jenny inventively complicates the terms of Gareth's proof, but the more these two tangle, the more they come to see each other's attractive qualities among the flaws. If too much psychoanalysis sometimes gets read into a single heated gaze, such freshman flaws barely distract from the joy of watching the characters develop amid delightful plot twists. (Jan.)

Jenny Keeble spent a dozen years building her career as fortune-teller “Madame Esmerelda,” and if the stuffy, unfeeling nobleman Gareth Carhart thinks she’s going to give it up without a fight, he is madder than a hatter. Convinced that Madame Esmerelda is a con, Gareth plans on scientifically proving that the lady is a fraud. Challenged by Gareth to put up or shut up, Jenny declares that she will successfully predict whom Gareth will marry, and so the two begin their battle of wits. Newcomer Milan expertly portrays an irresistible hero whose faith in logic is turned upside down by a sharp-witted, sharp-tongued heroine. Mix in captivating secondary characters, lively writing, and sexy chemistry, and the result is an unforgettable romance debut. -- John Charles

Review

"A brilliant debut . . . deeply romantic, sexy and smart." -- Eloisa James
