Editorial Review

From the Back Cover

This is the book for anyone wishing to enter the rapidly growing field of event management. Event management is quite different from ordinary business management. Most business managers can make and learn from mistakes. Successful event managers realize that special skills are required for the planning of these expensive and often one-time occasions.

Business projects and new product developments now culminate in events, while high-level business meetings, seminars, conferences and exhibitions are viewed as events. And, of course, there are thousands of festivals and many thousands of weddings, parties, celebratory and sporting events every year, all of which require expert management.

From this book you will learn how to design, plan, market and stage an event. You will learn how to manage staff and staffing problems, and how to ensure the safety of everyone involved. And, you will learn what you need to know about legal compliance, risk management, financial control, and how to evaluate the success of the events you stage.

Whether you're involved in creating an event such as the one listed above, which introduced over 7,000 members of the press and employees of a major airline to a new product, organizing a walk/run for a charitable event, or working on a local blues festival, the event management industry is full of excitement. Certainly no one day in the life of an event manager is ever alike. The event business is a dynamic one that is not free from frustration—but in the end, most event managers believe that they have the best job on earth.

The event and convention industry is a $100 billion industry and currently employs 1.5 million people. This has precipitated the increase in the popularity of studies of event management. For those who are looking for an exciting career, where their organizational skills and attention to detail along with their creativity can be fully utilized, this is an industry that is attracting many of the country's brightest students.

As an author who has written about the hospitality and event industry for the past decade, it has been my privilege to be able to compile this text. I have many people to thank. First and foremost I would like to thank Lynn Van Der Wagen. It has been a rewarding experience to adapt her original text, which was published in Australia. Thanks goes to Lynn for providing a number of photos that were used in this text. To Vern Anthony my Prentice Hall/Pearson editor and his staff who have shown tremendous interest and support for this work. To Ed Sanders, my mentor, who has always believed in me and helped me to grow in the industry. To the many associations, organizations and professionals that freely shared their data and ideas with me. Their examples are what make this text come alive and truly represent the U.S. market.

Most of all I must thank my dear family, who are the reason that I want to work hard and improve myself. Rudy, you're the best. Chad, Clint, and Melissa I appreciate your support. Mom and dad too, you taught me that I can accomplish anything I set my mind on as long as I'm willing to put in the required work.

And finally, a special thanks to all the students and educators who will turn to this book. I have kept you in mind during every phase of writing this manuscript. It is my hope that this book will become a great resource to you. May all your events be successful!

Brenda R. Carlos
