Stranger in Town (Dundee, Idaho series Book 5) By Brenda Novak

The car accident was Hannah Price's fault—a few seconds of inattention that changed Gabe Holbrook's life forever, destroying everything he'd been or ever wanted to be.

He was a man who'd had it all. Intelligent, handsome, talented, rich, he'd been one of the best quarterbacks in the NFL. Now he's come home to Dundee, the small town where he was raised, but he's a stranger to the people who once knew him. Folks think he's bitter and withdrawn; he knows he's just focused on recovering. But thanks to Hannah Price, there are some things that can't be fixed.

Hannah has been struggling to recover from that fateful night, too. Unlike Gabe, she sustained only minor injuries. But she's not sure she'll ever be able to forgive herself for making a mistake with such far-reaching consequences. Especially when Gabe becomes her older son's football coach, and she begins to fall in love with the man she nearly destroyed...

Gabriel Holbrook was a successful NFL quarterback until the night Hannah Price took a dangerous chance on a snowy mountain road and hit his car. Now living in a cabin outside his small hometown of Dundee, Gabe has isolated himself from family and friends, believing that if he just pushes himself hard enough he will no longer need a wheelchair. When a friend insists that Gabe take over as coach of the high-school football team, Gabe reluctantly agrees, only to discover that one of his players is Kenny Price, Hannah's teenage son. Hannah hopes to repay part of the debt she owes him, but never imagines that she could fall in love with Gabe, or that he could ever forgive her. Novak perfectly captures the feel of small-town life, and her powerful story of two lonely, fragile people who find another chance at love is a sweetly satisfying and richly rewarding romance. John Charles
